C. T. McCarty left Monday to attend a meeting of the Southern States Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, which was held in Jacksonville for the first three days of the week. Mr. McCarty was on the program for an address on "Florida Pineapples," which was a most interesting paper. Mr. McCarty is the president of the Florida State Horticultural Society, and takes an active interest in all matters pertaining to the horticultural or agricultural interests of the State.

A runaway which terminated rather disastrously occurred yesterday morning on High street. It is not known what frightened the horses, for they had just been driven up in front of Drawdy's livery stable and the bed removed from the wagon when they dashed away up the street, crossing Palmetto avenue and entering the lumber yard. Here they were brought to a sudden stop by "Sweetheart," the mule owned by the East Coast Lumber & Supply Co., who calmly held them up. Unfortunately one of the runaways was struck by a shaft of the lumber wagon which passed entirely through its body, fatally injuring it. Marshal Alderman mercifully ended its suffering with a shot from his 38. It is a remarkable fact that the other runaway and the mule were unhurt.
